

ABSTRACTCOMBUSTION APPARATUS

A wall element for use as part of an inner wall of a gas 5 turbine engine combustor wall structure is of cast construction and includes a plurality of cooling apertures provided therethrough and formed during the casting process. The cooling apertures may be located in positions where they could not be conventionally formed by laser 10 drilling.

(Fig 4)